

A PLAIN-WORDS GUIDE

How the money works in HueVista

Every plan, every price and every button that costs something — explained the simple way, with no jargon.

The whole thing in four sentences

A paint shop pays HueVista a small amount every month, like a phone recharge. That monthly pack gives the shop a set number of photo makeovers to use up. Anything beyond that pack is paid for in points — which the shop either earns free when a walk-in pays at its counter link, or buys at one rupee a point.

HueVista · Proprietor: Vikram Mali · Abu Road, Rajasthan, India

All prices in Indian rupees. GST is currently 0%, so the price you see is the price you pay.

PART ONE

Who is who

Only two kinds of people use HueVista, and only one of them ever pays us monthly. Keeping them straight makes everything else easy.

	The paint shop	The walk-in customer
Who they are	A shop that sells paint. They have an account and sign in.	Someone who walks into that shop wanting to see a colour on their wall.
What they pay	A monthly plan — and extras when they want more.	Nothing, usually. The shop covers it. Or a one-off ₹99 at the shop's counter link.
What they get	Photo makeovers, colour boards, a counter link, and points.	A picture of their own room in the colour they picked.

Think of it like a photo studio

The shop is the studio owner. They buy a pack of film every month. The customer is the person getting their photo taken — they don't buy film, they just walk out with the picture.

PART TWO

What one “photo makeover” means

Almost every price in HueVista is counted in images. So it is worth knowing exactly what one image is. It happens in two steps:

- Step 1 — the clean-up. Someone takes a photo of a wall. It is dark, or blurry, or crooked. HueVista tidies it up. This always happens, and it always uses one image from your monthly pack.
- Step 2 — drawing the edges. Before we can paint the wall a new colour, we need to know exactly where the wall stops and the window begins. There are two ways to do this.

Way of drawing the edges	What it means	What it costs
By hand	You tap or trace the wall yourself, like colouring inside the lines.	Free. Unlimited. On every plan.
Auto-mask (the robot way)	The computer finds the wall for you in a second or two.	Uses one auto-mask from your monthly pack.

This is why there are two numbers on every plan. One counts photos (images), one counts robot-drawn edges (auto-masks). You can always run out of robot help and keep working by hand — doing it yourself never costs anything and never runs out.

PART THREE

The monthly plans

A plan is a monthly recharge pack. You pay on the same date each month, and the counters go back to full. Anything you didn't use does not carry over — next month starts fresh, same as a phone pack.

Plan	Per month	Photos	Auto-masks	Colour boards	Photos per board
Free trial	₹0	3	2	5	4
Starter	₹999	20	5	25	4
Professional	₹2,499	60	40	100	8
Business	₹4,999	120	90	300	12
Enterprise	Ask us	Unlimited	Unlimited	Unlimited	16

A colour board is the PDF you hand the customer — their room in a few different shades, side by side, ready to print or send on WhatsApp. The last column is how many pictures fit inside one board.

The free trial

Every new shop starts with 7 days free. No card, no payment, nothing charged when it ends. You get 3 projects in that week — two you can let the robot draw, one you draw by hand. It is meant to be enough to try the whole thing properly on a real customer, not to run a week of business on.

Moving between plans

- Going up (Starter → Professional) happens straight away. Your counters reset to the bigger numbers immediately, and the old plan is cancelled for you so you are never charged twice.
- Going down waits. Cancel the plan you are on — it keeps working until the end of the month you already paid for — then pick the smaller one.
- Cancelling never cuts you off on the spot. You keep everything until the last day you paid for.

One thing worth knowing about projects

Once you are on a paid plan, you can make as many projects as you like. What limits you is the number of photos in your pack, not the number of projects. Projects are only ever bought one-by-one by a shop on the free trial, or a shop with no plan at all.

PART FOUR

What happens when you run out

It is the 22nd, your 20 photos are gone, and a customer is standing at the counter. Nothing breaks. You spend points — and points are the only thing you ever spend on HueVista besides the monthly plan itself.

What you want	What it costs
One extra photo	40 points
One extra AI auto-mask	20 points
One whole project	80 points
Reopening an expired project	9 points

Extras never expire. A photo you bought in June is still sitting there in September. Only your monthly allowance resets — things you spent points on stay until you use them.

PART FIVE

Points

Points are the one balance on your account. There is no separate wallet of money sitting beside them — that used to exist and was taken away, because having two balances meant every purchase had two prices and you had to think about which one to use.

There are two ways to get points.

- Earn them. Every time a customer pays at your counter link, you get 30 points, free.
- Buy them. ₹1 buys 1 point. So ₹100 is 100 points, ₹500 is 500. Minimum purchase is 100 points.

Earned and bought points are exactly the same

Once they are on your account there is no difference between a point you earned and a point you paid for. Same expiry, same prices, and when you spend, the oldest ones go first whichever kind they are. Nothing has to remember where a point came from.

Points expire after one year

Every batch of points has its own birthday. Points that arrive today are good for 365 days and then they are gone — earned or bought, the same rule.

- The oldest points get used first, automatically. You never have to think about it, and you never lose points that you could have spent.
- We email you 10 days before a batch is due to expire.
- We email you again on the day itself, so there is no quiet surprise.
- The app shows the exact date the next batch runs out, and turns it red in the last 10 days.

Three more rules

- Points are for shops only. A customer account cannot earn, buy or spend them.
- Points are not money. They cannot be cashed out, transferred to another shop, or refunded once they are on your account and ready to use.
- If a customer gets a refund, the points from that sale go back too. If you already spent them, your balance goes below zero and the next points you get quietly fill the hole. Nothing is taken from you twice.

PART SIX

Projects

A project is one customer's job: their room, their photos, the colours they are choosing between. You open it, work on it, and hand them a colour board at the end.

Situation	What a project costs	How long it stays open
On a paid plan	Nothing extra — make as many as you want	30 days
On the free trial	First 3 free, then ₹50 each	30 days
No plan at all	₹99 each	30 days
Reopening an old one	₹9	another 30 days

The clock pauses while you are subscribed

Those 30 days only tick down when you don't have a plan. While a plan is running, the window is frozen — a project you bought stays banked and starts counting again only if your plan ends. You never lose days you paid for just because you subscribed.

If a project runs out

It doesn't get deleted. It goes quiet — you can still see it, you just can't work on it. Pay ₹9 (or 9 points) and it opens again for another 30 days, with everything exactly as you left it.

PART SEVEN

The counter link

Every shop gets its own web link, something like huevista.com/store/mehta-x7k2p9. Print it as a QR code, put it on a tablet at the counter, or send it on WhatsApp. A customer opens it and does the whole thing themselves.

- The customer pays ₹99, once. Card, UPI or QR.
- They get a code and land straight in the app — no sign-up, no password.
- They upload one photo of their room and try colours on it.
- The code also appears in your Active codes list, so you can see what they chose.

- You earn 30 reward points.

Why the shop doesn't get a share of the ₹99

The ₹99 is a payment from the customer to HueVista, for a HueVista service. You don't set that price and you don't take a cut of it — you get points instead. This is deliberate. Collecting money on someone else's behalf and passing it on is a regulated activity in India with its own licences and rules. Rewarding you in points keeps the payment simple and keeps everybody on the right side of it.

PART EIGHT

Every price, on one page

Pin this one up. Everything HueVista can charge for is here.

Monthly plans

Plan	Per month	Photos	Auto-masks	Colour boards
Free trial (7 days)	₹0	3	2	5
Starter	₹999	20	5	25
Professional	₹2,499	60	40	100
Business	₹4,999	120	90	300
Enterprise	Ask us	Unlimited	Unlimited	Unlimited

What points buy

What	Points
One extra photo	40
One extra AI auto-mask	20
One whole project	80
Reopen a project for 30 more days	9

Where points come from

	Earned	Bought
How	A customer pays at your counter link	You buy them in the app
Rate	30 points per sale	₹1 = 1 point (min 100)
What it costs you	Nothing	₹1 per point
Expires?	One year from the day earned	One year from the day bought
Can it become cash?	No	No

Still not sure about something?

Use the support chat in the app — it knows who you are, so billing questions get answered faster. Or write to payments@huevista.org, or call +91 63784 82381 (Mon–Sat, 10am–7pm). The full rules live at huevista.com/legal/refunds and /legal/terms — this guide explains them, those pages are the ones that count.

All prices in Indian rupees, correct at the time of writing. GST is currently 0%, so the price shown is the price charged. Payments are handled by Razorpay — HueVista never sees or stores your card details.